Staying secure online

The European Cybersecurity Month (ECSM) is the European Union's annual campaign dedicated to promoting cybersecurity among EU citizens and organisations, and to providing up-to-date online security information through awareness raising and sharing of good practices.

The ECSM campaign is coordinated by the European Union Agency for Cybersecurity (ENISA) and the European Commission, and supported by EU Member States and hundreds of partners from Europe, and beyond.

Protecting Personal Data When Working Remotely

Measures to control and prevent the spread of COVID-19 will involve more people working remotely than usual. Below are some tips to keep personal data safe when working away from the office. For more information you can consult the guidance on data security on our website.

Devices

- Take extra care that devices, such as USBs, phones, laptops, or tablets, are not lost or misplaced.
- Make sure that any device has the necessary updates, such as operating system updates (like iOS or android) and software/antivirus updates.
- Ensure that your laptop is stored in a safe location, for example where you can keep sight of it and minimise who else can view the screen, particularly if working with sensitive personal data.
- Lock your device if you do have to leave it unattended for any reason.
- Make sure your devices are turned off, locked, or stored carefully when not in use.
- Use effective access controls (such as multi-factor authentication and strong passwords) and, where possible, a ‘wipe’ option to restrict access to the device, and to reduce the risk if a device is stolen or misplaced.
- Where possible, if a device is lost or stolen, you should take steps immediately to ensure a remote memory wipe, where possible.

Emails

- Follow any applicable policies in your organisation around the use of email.
- Use work email accounts rather than personal ones for work-related emails involving personal data. Make sure that messages and attachments are encrypted and avoid using personal or confidential data in subject lines.
- Before sending an email, ensure you’re sending it to the correct recipient, particularly for emails involving large amounts of personal data or sensitive personal data.

Cloud and Network Access

- Use secure and reliable, trustworthy cloud networks or cloud services, and complying with any organisational rules and procedures about cloud or network access, login and, data sharing.
- If you’re working without cloud or network access, ensure any locally stored data is adequately backed up in a secure manner.

Paper Records

- It’s important to remember that data protection applies to not only electronically stored or processed data, but also personal data in manual form (such as paper records) where it is, or is intended to be, processed by a system.
- Where you are working together with paper records, take steps to ensure the security and confidentiality of these records, such as by keeping them locked in a filing cabinet or drawer when not in use, and by ensuring they are not left unattended or unsecured, and making sure they are not left somewhere where they could be misplaced or stolen.
- If you’re dealing with records that contain special categories of personal data (e.g. health data) you should take extra care to ensure their security and confidentiality, and only remove such records from your office if it is necessary to carry out your work.
- Where possible, you should keep a written record of which records and files have been taken home, in order to maintain good data access and governance practices.

Contact-tracing data harvested from pubs and restaurants being sold on

Companies collecting data for pubs and restaurants to help them fulfil their contact-tracing duties are harvesting confidential customer information to sell.

Legal experts have warned of a “privacy crisis” caused by a rise in companies exploiting QR barcodes to take names, addresses, telephone numbers and email details, before passing them on to marketers, credit companies and insurance brokers. The concerns do not relate to the official NHS Covid contact-tracing app.

For Individuals

The Right of Access

How do I exercise the right of access?

The GDPR does not set out any particular method for making a valid access request, therefore a request may be made by an individual in writing or verbally. The DPC would, however, encourage individuals to submit written access requests where practical, to avoid disputes over the details, extent, or timing of an access request. The DPC has provided the below template for access requests that are made to the controller in writing:

Dear...

I wish to make an access request under Article 15 of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) for a copy of any information you keep about me, on computer or in manual form in relation to...

Please be as specific as possible in relation to the personal data you wish to access.

How to make a data subject access request

Here is our sample letter for requests for access according to Art. 15 GDPR. The passages in [square brackets] are optional; you can decide yourself whether you want to include them. You still have to fill in the data in {curly braces}.

To Whom It May Concern:

I am hereby requesting access according to Article 15 GDPR. Please confirm whether or not you are processing personal data (as defined by Article 4(1) and (2) GDPR) concerning me.

In case you are, I am hereby requesting access to the following information pursuant to Article 15 GDPR:

1. all personal data concerning me that you have stored, including any potential pseudonymised data on me as per Article 4(5) GDPR;
2. the purposes of the processing;
3. the categories of personal data concerned;
4. the recipients or categories of recipient to whom the personal data have been or will be disclosed;
5. where possible, the envisaged period for which the personal data will be stored, or, if not possible, the criteria used to determine that period;
6. where the personal data are not collected from the data subject, any available information as to their source;
7. the existence of automated decision-making, including profiling, referred to in Article 22(1) and (4) GDPR and, at least in those cases, meaningful information about the logic involved, as well as the significance and the envisaged consequences of such processing for me.

In case you are processing anonymised data concerning me, please not only inform me about that but also explain the procedure used in an easily understandable way.

[Please make the personal data concerning me, which I have provided to you, available to me in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format as laid down in Article 20(1) GDPR.]

My request explicitly includes any other services and companies for which you are the controller as defined by Article 4(7) GDPR.

As laid down in Article 12(3) GDPR, you have to provide the requested information to me without undue delay and in any event within one month of receipt of the request. According to Article 15(3) GDPR, you have to answer this request without cost to me.

I am including the following information necessary to identify me:

{Enter your identification data here. This often includes information like your name, your date of birth, your address, your email address and so on.}

If you do not answer my request within the stated period, I am reserving the right to take legal action against you and to lodge a complaint with the responsible supervisory authority.

Thank you in advance.

Yours sincerely,

{Your name}

Guidance

Data Subject Access Requests - FAQ

The majority of the complaints and queries the Data Protection Commission (DPC) receives concern individuals seeking to exercise their 'right of access'. The General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), under Article 15, gives individuals the right to request a copy of any of their personal data which are being 'processed' (i.e. used in any way) by 'controllers' (i.e. those who decide how and why data are processed), as well as other relevant information (as detailed below). These requests are often referred to as 'data subject access requests', or 'access requests'.

These requests must be responded to free of charge and in an accessible form, and controllers should seek to facilitate access requests being both made and responded to easily, including electronically where appropriate and where the individual wishes.

The following guidance should answer some of the most frequently asked questions by both individuals who are seeking copies of their personal data, as well as controllers who are struggling to deal with the access requests they are receiving.

Online Form

Facebook has removed its online form after thousands of requests on the 4th of November.

Now users are rerouted to a "download tool" that does not give the users a right to access!

When using this tool you only get a copy of your profile, but non of the data Facebook holds or generates in the background. This means you only get about 29% of your data!

We currently discourage you from using the online tool, since you will lose your right to access by only clicking on the tool!

Note: Facebook's "Download Tools" do not give you a copy of all data!

Ciudadanos: La polémica sobre la eutanasia tras la muerte de Sampedro

El Parlamento negó la eutanasia en el debate del Código Penal

■ El PP solicitó que se equiparara al homicidio; IU-IC, la despenalización, y el PSOE, mayoritario, optó por una postura intermedia, manteniendo la ilegalidad pero con penas amparadoras

Francisco Perón

■ BARCELONA - El reciente nacimiento de Ramón Sampedro, que en 1993 se convirtió en el primer paciente en ser declarado en coma permanente, ha abierto una polémica en el Congreso que se reconoce el derecho a una muerte digna ha reavivado el debate sobre la eutanasia. Los tres partidos que parecen recordar que hace casi dos años en la Comisión de Constitución presentaron en la Cuestión, durante la tramitación y aprobación del nuevo Código Penal. Gana la postura mayoritaria, la del PSOE, que aboga por una amparación de la pena, pero no la despenalización. Algunos diputados, sin embargo, intentan equilibrar la ley al suministrar un homicidio.

Aunque el grupo socialista, presidido por José María Pérez, dedicado a los delitos de homicidio y lesiones, es el que más se inclina a la eutanasia, el grupo de Izquierda Unida e Iniciativa para Cataluña (IU-IC) planteó la posibilidad de penalizar el 143 bis, en el que se despenaliza la eutanasia activa. Seguidamente, el grupo de los socialistas, que incluye, mediante actos necesarios o de cooperación activa, permitirle a la persona que se encuentra en coma y sin dolor de otra persona, a petición suya, la conducta teórica que castiga como un homicidio. El grupo de los socialistas, que apoya la medida, argumenta que refleja la situación de Ramón Sampedro. En el punto cuatro de este artículo se penaliza "el que cometa o cooperare activamente

OPINIÓN

■ CON OCASIÓN DE la muerte de Ramón Sampedro, la Asociación Derecho a Morir Dignamente (DDM) se pronuncia, una vez más, a favor del derecho humano a decidir cómo y en qué momento acabar con su propia vida. Afirmamos que se reconoce el derecho a una muerte irreversible, del dolor físico y psíquico que ésta supone, y que se debe respetar en un momento que la resulte insufrible.

Este es el momento para recordar que, aunque la DDM no es la única asociación que defiende la muerte digna, nuestra asociación ha altado enérgicamente la voz para denunciar la incapacidad de sectores institucionales de nuestro país de adaptarse a las demandas obsoletas, contradictorias con el pluralismo y la tolerancia propias de una democracia consolidada. La seguimos alentando contra el trámite legislativo que se está restando contenido al Código Penal.

What is the right to get your data deleted?

The right to get your data deleted is also known as the 'right to erasure'. You can ask an organisation that holds data about you to delete that data. In some circumstances, they must then do so. You may sometimes hear this called the 'right to be forgotten'.

[Name and address of the organisation]

[Reference number (if applicable)]

Dear [Sir or Madam / name of the person you have been in contact with]

Right to erasure

[Your full name and address and any other details such as account number to help identify you]

I wish to exercise my right of erasure under data protection law.

[Give details of what personal data you want erased/deleted.]

You can find guidance on your obligations under information rights legislation on the website of the Information Commissioner's Office (www.ico.org.uk) as well as information on their regulatory powers and the action they can take.

Please send a full response within one calendar month confirming if you will comply with my request. If you cannot respond within that timescale, please tell me when you will be able to respond.

If there is anything you would like to discuss, please contact me.

Yours faithfully
